

You must be kidding, law under attack! I finally have some peace at home from the phone consistently ringing from telemarketers. I received a minimum of 5 calls per day/night where I actually picked up. I also would have minimum 3 calls left on my answering machine. I found it to be so intrusive, particularly since I pay the phone bill. What gives them the right to disturb my evening after a stressful day at work. Why should I be forced to unplug my telephone.
